

Maths

+

%

We use mind mapping to begin our story writing.

EXCALIBUR

The legendary sword of King Arthur

Without a scratch he pulled the sword out easily Immediately, everyone called to their kings so Arthur Pendragon, High King of England, was dead King

Wednesday 7th February

Arthur and Excalibur

Long, long ago, when great forests lay upon the land, when the great dragons flew across the sky, when the wizards brewed their potions, when the knights of England and Wales, high king of England, died...

However, in order to claim the throne, Morgan Le Fay others, Arthur, would have to kill her brother Arthur, her brother. So the evil wizard, Merlin the wizard, tricked her into killing her brother. She failed so that instead of a worthy friend, she had a trickster who was to be the true King of all England.

Therefore, all brave knights and nobles came from the realm and tried to be the true King of all England. But they all failed and the kingdom was left kingless, useless and defenceless.

Sixteen years later, a great jousting tournament was held. Many messengers were sent to summon all knights from the kingdom. As a result, Sir Ector came to enter the tournament, bringing his son, Sir Kay and Arthur...

Fortunely, Sir Kay forgot his sword, so a rustic, a lowly peasant, offered to go and fetch it for him. As soon as he could, he rushed to the rustic's door. He found a sword in a stone. Just then, he saw a sign on the stone that said "Who so pull this sword out of the stone shall be the true King of all England."

As yet as he could, Arthur smiled and to say the sword was his. He knew what it was, Sir Kay had a mysterious plan to deceive everyone that he pulled the sword out, so he could claim the throne. Immediately, Sir Kay ran to fetch the sword and told King Ector that he had found the sword. King Ector was very angry because he knew that his son was a traitor.
Ector said to King Ector, "I do not know what you are saying. I am the true King of England. You are a traitor." King Ector said to King Ector, "I do not know what you are saying. I am the true King of England." King Ector said to King Ector, "I do not know what you are saying. I am the true King of England." King Ector said to King Ector, "I do not know what you are saying. I am the true King of England." King Ector said to King Ector, "I do not know what you are saying. I am the true King of England." King Ector said to King Ector, "I do not know what you are saying. I am the true King of England."

Wednesday 7th February

Arthur and Excalibur

Long, long ago, when fire breathing dragons ruled the skies, when vast forests blanketed the earth as mysterious creatures lurked land and ocean as wise wined wizards brewed their potions.
Arthur Pendragon, High King of all England died...

However, there was a problem. The true heir to the throne was only a newborn baby: a boy named Arthur. Since Arthur was so young he could not become king. This meant he was a target for many people, including his older sister, Morgan Le Fay.
She was a corrupt, callous, cruel, wrenching person. She would do anything to claim the throne. She would even murder her vulnerable, exposed, defenceless brother Arthur.

Consequently, others trusted friend Merlin had a plan to save young Arthur and to stop Morgan Le Fay's evil desire. Merlin would give Arthur to his powerful friend Sir Ector to protect and raise as his own son.
One day, Merlin would use magic to create a sword, a magical sword called Excalibur, engraved in the stone where were the words "Who so pull out of this stone shall be the right wise King of all England." Once Arthur had turned sixteen he would pull the sword from the stone and become king of all England. Ector agreed to his plan and left with young Arthur to raise and protect him with his life and soul.

As a result all knights, nobles and lords from far and wide were summoned to try and pull the sword from the stone, however none of them succeeded. So the kingdom was left kingless until many years later.

Sixteen years later, a great jousting tournament was held in Camelot. Many messengers were sent over hills and oceans to tell knights and lords of the special event. Some or later, Sir Ector arrived with his two sons, Sir Kay and Arthur to attend the tournament. Stupidly Sir Kay had forgotten his sword, so Sir Kay sent Arthur back to the tower. Once he arrived back at the tower he opened the rustic door, however it would not budge. He tugged and tugged and tugged. It was locked. So Arthur bravely walked back to tell him the bad news.

Once he arrived back at Camelot Arthur saw something golden in the corner of his eye, it was a sword in a stone. "That will do," thought Arthur. So opportunely Arthur pulled the sword out of the stone, it was as if he was cutting through butter with a blazing knife.
As he walked over to Sir Kay every one knelt to him.

Art with Mrs Carr

Here are some of the clay pendants the children have been busy designing in class.

Science!

Evidence of careful listening

A battery is a source of energy, therefore it provides energy. It has three parts, the cathode (the positive side) a ~~It has three~~ Anode (the ~~positive~~ negative side) in the middle part (the electrolyte).

~~The~~ Friday 12th February 2016

How to make a battery

what you need: Lemon, copper coin, zinc nail.

Let's make it! ✓

1) Firstly, roll your lemon (don't push too hard!) very clear

2) Next, put your zinc nail in the lemon! sequence (Don't push right down!)

3) Finally, push your copper coin into the lemon (remember leave a gap)

clear diagram.

like this!
←